Volcanic Eruption Results in Tragedy

At around 6 a.m. yesterday morning, there was a large explosion at the peak of Mount St. Helen's. The volcanic eruption, which came without warning, exploded with a force similar to that of an atom bomb, killing six people and leaving twenty-one others missing. 1_____ The blast was heard 200 miles away in Canada but, strangely, went unheard 45 miles away in the Vancouver area.

According to geologists, this violent eruption is the first of its kind in 32,000 years. 2_____ The devastating consequences of the eruption have been widespread. There have been several connected explosions in the region, and the surrounding areas have been blackened out by ash clouds, which are making rescue attempts extremely difficult.

3_____ The water swept away houses, bridges and cars.

4_____ Experts predict that ash will continue to rise from the mountain for a few days. 5_____ This could continue for another fifteen or twenty years.

It will be quite some time before things get back to normal for the residents of the area. 6_____ Rescue efforts are continuing today in an attempt to find any survivors. Despite extreme difficulties and dangerous conditions, it is hoped that the rescue operation will be carried out successfully. 7_____

A statement estimating the cost of the damage is expected to be issued later this week.

- A. After that, lava and mud will begin to erupt from the crater.
- B. At present, no public services are working apart from the emergency services.
- C. "Hope hasn't been lost. We'll all do our best," a member of a rescue team reported.
- D. At the time of the explosion, most of the residents of the area were asleep or just getting up for work.
- E. Also, a resulting mudflow in the nearby Toutle River caused the river to burst its banks.
- F. Experts claim that the blast exploded 1,300 feet into the air from the peak of the mountain and has left behind a 5,000 foot deep crater.
- G. Conditions are not expected to improve in the near future.
